

ABSTRACT

Methods and a photoprinter are provided for performing more efficient data management on digital photographic images residing on a photoprinter. Alterations to the digital photographic image are processed at a first resolution while insertions of text and graphics onto the digital photographic image are processed at a second resolution.

005020-4040360